

I-Mab Appoints Gigi Feng as Vice President and Global Head of Corporate Communications

March 23, 2020

SHANGHAI, China and ROCKVILLE, MD., March 23, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- I-Mab (the "Company") (Nasdaq: IMAB), a clinical stage biopharmaceutical company committed to the discovery, development and commercialization of novel or highly differentiated biologics to treat diseases with significant unmet medical needs, today announced the appointment of Gigi Feng as Vice President, Global Head of Corporate Communications, effective April 20th, 2020. Reporting to I-Mab's Board of Directors, Feng will oversee all communications across I-Mab, partnering with the executive team to communicate the Company's strategic narrative, R&D innovation, external collaborations and more.

"We are very excited at the prospect of Gigi leading our domestic and global communications efforts as we are growing rapidly towards a fully integrated global biopharma. Gigi is a talented communications leader and brings to the Company a wealth of global experience across the healthcare sector, which will be key to building I-Mab's capability to effectively communicate with various key stakeholders, including media, business partners, health professionals and regulators," said Dr. Jingwu Zang, I-Mab Founder and Honorary Chairman of the Board.

"I'm honored to join Dr. Zang and his team at this critical time when the need for medical innovation is more urgent and important than ever before," said Feng. "As a China-based global company at the leading edge of innovation and biotechnology, I-Mab is in a position to make a positive global impact. The entire team at I-Mab has an unwavering commitment to bringing best-in-class and first-in-class medicines to patients in need. I am proud to be part of the team."

Feng most recently served as Amgen's Japan Asia Pacific regional head of Corporate Affairs, where she led communications efforts including executive communications, media relations, employee engagement and philanthropy to build the Amgen brand across 14 markets in the Asia Pacific region. Before joining Amgen, Feng held a series of communications leadership roles at Sanofi, where she positioned the company as a scientific partner of choice. Prior to Sanofi, she led the strategic communications group at APCO Worldwide in Shanghai, an international public affairs and strategic communications consultancy, with a focus on the healthcare and consumer sectors. She also worked at the U.S. Consulate General in Shanghai, where she managed Consulate-wide communications and large-scale events.

Feng graduated from Cornell University with a B.A. in Government and Asian Studies. She also completed an executive education program in business strategy at the Harvard Business School.
